Our Work of the Past Year>

Potential game changers:

1. H.R. 5305 - ... waiting to see if the bill would move last summer and last fall; now we're waiting for re-introduction in this Congress, and Council is poised to act when it is re-introduced.
2. Nomination of Robert Tapella - ... waiting for the hearing and the appointment last summer and last fall; now we're waiting for the hearing this spring.

- GPO leadership: Council has worked with 5+ GPO Directors (DaVita Vance-Cooks, James Bradley, Andrew Sherman, Herbert Jackson, John Crawford, and Robert Tapella in the shadows).
- With the change of Director over the months, other key administration positions are also now vacant – the Chief of Staff, the Deputy Director, Chief Administrative Officer, and the Managing Director of Plant Operations. Thank heavens and all the gods that during that time we have had just one Superintendent of Documents!

FDLP eXchange Implementation and Enhancement

Council members have been very interested in and involved with FDLP eXchange at each step in the process, because we, like you, knew how important this new system would be to our daily work.

Fall 2018 Conference Program and Council Recommendation

- The rest of our work of the past year you'll hear about during the programs over the next three days.

Stewarding Small: Comprehensive Collecting

- National Comprehensive Collection

Federal depository libraries are collaborating in new ways within and across regions. Collection development and preservation projects abound; pilot strategies and FDLP eXchange make our work new yet again. So how are these efforts helping to build a distributed national collection? This program builds on past DLC sessions about comprehensive collections as we learn about practices at several depositories. Through lively discussion, this session will inspire attendees to contribute content, services, and expertise.

Digital Deposit: a Value Proposition

This session aims to define and demonstrate value of digital deposit for the FDLP community. Though discussion of digital deposit has been circulating in the FDLP community since the early 2000s, a recent Council recommendation for a working group and GPO-proposed pilot project are adding momentum to this model. This session also seeks feedback from the community regarding the value of digital deposit and problems it could solve regarding digital content for FDLs and the public we keep informed.

Digital Only Depository Libraries: The Triumphs and the Challenges

As the FDLP has transitioned to a primarily electronic or digital program, new FDLP libraries like Loudoun County Public Library have joined as digital-only, choosing not to receive any tangible resources; other depositories, like Loyola University Chicago, are moving, or plan to move, in this same direction. A Council working group is examining what it means to be a digital-only depository and what effect this new model has on FDLP guidance and services as we work toward our vision “to provide Government information when and where it is needed.” Join us in this session to share your thoughts, ask your questions, and:

- Learn from the practices of a digital-only Depository Coordinator.
- Understand the preparation necessary to transition to a digital-only library.
- Discover what the working group has learned and their next steps.

That's the past year. Now we'd like to talk about the next year.

- Let's have a community discussion – What issues would you, the FDLP library community, like Council to focus on in the coming year?
