Monday, Oct. 18

- 8:30 – 9:15 Overview of Federal Digitization Projects Washington
- This presentation will cover major federal digitization projects. Projects reviewed include: GPO Registry, TRAIL, CIC and more including a brief discussion on any projects in individual libraries.*
- Barbie Selby, Manager, Research & Info. Services, University of Virginia
- 9:00 – 10:00 New Depository Staff Orientation Crystal Ballroom A-B
- Learn more about basic depository resources and activities. Come prepared to ask questions of GPO personnel in this informal session.*
- Kathy B. Bayer, Ashley Dahlen, Kristina Bobe, Mark Ames, and Melissa Fairfield, Outreach Librarians, Education and Outreach, Library Services and Content Management, GPO
- 9:15 – 10:00 Hispanic Heroes, Border Shenanigans & Dr. Seuss? A Depository Library Centennial in New Mexico Wilson/Harrison
- New Mexico State University celebrated its Federal Depository Centennial in April of 2010 with a series of events focused on the history of New Mexico and its unique position as a border state. By choosing to focus on regional history and local issues we were able to draw attention to important campus and community concerns and forge new relationships with other campus personnel, the public library and public schools in the area. This presentation gives an overview of the experience and highlights lessons learned about the dos and don'ts of throwing a Centennial Party.*
- Dorothy Ormes, Government Documents & Maps Librarian, New Mexico State University
- 9:15 – 10:00 Federated Searching: Reaching Out To Valuable Resources You Would Otherwise Probably Never Search Jackson
- This presentation will focus on federated searching tools from the Department of Energy Office of Scientific and Technical Information, including Science.gov and Science Accelerator.gov. There will be discussion of how to improve federated search results and how to understand what results you are getting. The presentation will also demonstrate the new multilingual search capabilities of WorldWideScience.org*
- Tim Byrne, Senior Outreach Librarian, U.S. Dept. of Energy

Monday, Oct. 18

- 9:15 -10:00 Harvesting Government Documents into the Local Catalog: A New Model for Online Access Washington
- When the University of Denver began using an OAI-PMH harvester to bring HathiTrust materials into their Encore library catalog, they discovered an extremely high percentage of government documents in the harvest. This presentation will discuss the challenges and successes the library encountered as we attempted harvesting as a non-Hathi member library. We have been able to add over 100,000 online documents (with additional records every week). Among the advantages is that there is no record management involved. On the negative side is the poor record quality. Use statistics from Google Analytics will be presented. The harvesting model can be viewed as a forward-looking model for low-cost, high-volume access to government document content.*
- Christopher C. Brown, Government Documents Librarian, University of Denver
- 10:00 – 10:30 Break Crystal Ballroom C
- 10:30 – 12:00 Plenary Session: Council/GPO Welcome and Kick-Off Crystal Ballroom A-B
- Council meeting and Conference kick-off, with welcome from Council and GPO, highlights of developments at GPO and LSCM, and announcement of the 2010 Federal Depository Library of the Year*
- Suzanne Sears, Chair, Depository Library Council
 - Robert C. Tapella, Public Printer, GPO
 - Richard G. Davis, Director, Library Services & Content Management, Acting Superintendent of Documents, GPO
- 12:00 – 2:00 Lunch Break On Your Own (Regionals / Selectives)
- 2:00 – 3:30 Council Session: Progress from Spring DLC Meeting and Draft Recommendations, plus Discussion on FDLP Benefits for Libraries & the Public Crystal Ballroom A-B
- This presentation will focus on Depository Library Council's (DLC) Draft Recommendations from the Spring Meeting and GPO actions associated with them. Additionally, the session will discuss the proposed strategy for documenting and presenting benefits of the FDLP for Library Administrators.*
- Jill Moriearty, Knowledge Commons Liaison, J. Willard Marriott Library, University of Utah
 - David Cismowski, Head, Government Publication Section, California State Library
 - Helen Burke, Minneapolis Central Library
 - Ted Priebe, Director of Library Planning & Development, GPO
 - Kelly Seifert, Lead Planning Specialist, Office of the Director, Library Services and Content Management, GPO

Monday, Oct. 18

2:00 – 3:30 Accessing Federal Geospatial Data on the Web: The Latest Developments Wilson/Harrison

The panel will consist of representatives from three US federal agencies to showcase how they are pushing online access to geospatial information and presenting the data in new and exciting ways. Individuals will learn about the latest developments and information about the dissemination of geospatial information from the USGS, geodata.gov and either EPA or USDA.

- Marcy Bidney, Geospatial Information Librarian, Penn State University

2:00 – 3:30 Making Continuing Education Happen: Details of Planning and Jackson
Implementing the Six-State Virtual Government Information Conference

The biennial continuing education conference was scheduled for this year in the 4-corner area of the country. With a weak economy, we were concerned that attendance might be limited. To facilitate broad participation, we decided to experiment with an online econference. The Six-State Virtual Government Information Conference took place from August 11-17, 2010 using GPO's OPAL subscription. The feedback we have received from participants has been overwhelmingly positive. Come and hear how we developed this conference and made it happen.

- Janet Fisher, Division Director, Arizona State Library
- Peggy Jobe, Associate Professor and Faculty Director, Government Publications Library, University Libraries, University of Colorado at Boulder
- Christopher C. Brown, Reference Technology Integration Librarian, University of Denver
- Jennie Gerke, Electronic Government Information Librarian, University of Colorado – Boulder
- Pat Ragains, Business and Government Information Librarian, University of Nevada, Reno
- Sandy Rizzo, Librarian III - Business and Government Information, Mesa (AZ) Public Library
- Kerry Skinner, Acquisitions Librarian, Arizona State University,
- Victoria Trotta, Associate Dean for Information Technology, Arizona State University
- Brad Vogus, Head of Social Sciences and Government Information Services, Arizona State University Libraries

Monday, Oct. 18

2:00 – 2:45 From Revolution to Remote Storage: The Irony of Microforms Washington

As libraries increasingly look to renovate on-campus collections spaces into user spaces, microforms—the most space-efficient format until digital came along--suddenly seem to be taking up a lot of valuable real estate. Any depository coordinator considering a move of microforms to off-campus storage or closed stacks must address questions of retrieval models, housing, digitization, and weeding. This presentation aims not only to address those local logistical issues, but also to engage the audience in sharing their strategies and considering collaborative approaches to microforms management and services.

- Julie Linden, Librarian for Political Science, International Affairs & Government Information, Yale University
- Valerie Glenn, Government Information Librarian and Regional Librarian for Alabama University Libraries

2:45 – 3:30 Managing the Disposition of Depository Materials: Practical Tips for Efficient Weeding Washington

Depository libraries must fulfill their legal obligation to dispose of documents following the specific procedures set forth in the FDL Handbook and in accordance with the Regional Depository disposal guidelines. The weeding process can be cumbersome and time consuming for many selective depositories. Finding an efficient way to streamline this process is crucial for a successful transition from a tangible collection to a mostly electronic collection.

- Liya Deng, Government Information Librarian, Mercer University

3:30 – 4:00 Break (Library of the Year cake/reception) Crystal Ballroom C

4:00 – 5:30 Council Session: Born Digital At-Risk Material: The Future of the Digital FDLP

The documents community is deep in the throes of transforming the almost 200-year-old geographically distributed Federal Depository Library Program (FDLP) from the print to digital environment. This transformation brings with it much excitement about better access but also much worry about digital collection and preservation as libraries begin to deal with born-digital at risk material. This panel will include: End-of-term .gov crawl project; GPO Web harvesting activities; LOCKSS-USDOCS for distributed digital preservation; and Open forum on born digital materials

- James Jacobs, Green Library, Stanford University
- Shari Laster, Bierce library, University of Akron
- Justin Otto, John F. Kennedy Library, Eastern Washington University
- Robin Haun-Mohamed, Director, Collection Management and Preservation, GPO
- Laurie Hall, Director, Library Technical Information Services, GPO
- David Walls, Preservation Librarian, Collection Management & Preservation, Library Services and Content Management, GPO
- Cathy Hartman, Associate Dean of Libraries, University of North Texas Libraries

Monday, Oct. 18

- 4:00 – 5:30 Documents Data Miner 2: Essential Uses Wilson/Harrison
- This program offers a “best practices” overview of DDM2, an online set of tools for managing federal depository collections.*
- Nan Myers, Director of Public Services, Wichita State University
- 4:00 – 4:45 Using the Catalog of U.S. Government Publications to Customize Item Selection Profiles to Address Local Needs Jackson
- For depository librarians who wish to reduce the volume of tangible materials received to just those items which address local needs, no single tool answers all concerns of depository staff evaluating their libraries’ item selection profiles. The presentation demonstrates how to use available tools effectively to evaluate items available for selection and modify library selection profiles.*
- John A. Stevenson, Associate Librarian and Coordinator, Government Documents & Maps Processing Unit, University of Delaware
- 4:00 – 4:45 Be Prepared / Ser Listo Washington
- A presentation of government documents and web sites available to keep citizens informed of natural and man-made disasters. The presentation will be bilingual in English and Spanish and will include information on hurricanes, earthquakes, tornados, floods, and acts of terrorism including chemical, biological and nuclear. Information presented will be divided into facts about types of disasters, preparation for disasters, and government resources available to citizens after a disaster. The presentation will be useful for depository libraries with Spanish speaking populations and for those libraries located in regions with a high probability of disaster occurrence.*
- Jane Canfield, Depository Coordinator, Pontificia Universidad Catolica de Puerto Rico
- 4:45 – 5:30 Database Roundup: View From the Cheap Seats Jackson
- With the introduction of an Electronic Resources Management product, the University Libraries of the University of Memphis began an ongoing project to provide access to all databases, included free government databases, through the online public catalog. Discovery, selection, and presentation of the resources are discussed.*
- Mary K. Freilich, Head Government Publications, University of Memphis

Monday, Oct. 18

4:45 – 5:30 Building Better Relationship with ASERL’s Collaborative Federal Depository Program

Washington

The Association of Southeastern Research Libraries (ASERL), with the help of an IMLS grant, has developed and is piloting a project to create a region-wide collaborative depository program. The program allows for cooperative retrospective collection management while staying within the scope of Title 44. The creation of a series of centers of excellence for various federal agencies serves as a focal point for achieving this goal. The speakers will address the development of the project, best practices, and lessons learned

- Chelsea Dinsmore, International Documents Librarian, University of Florida
- Valerie Glenn, Government Information Librarian, University of Alabama

TUESDAY OCT. 20

- 8:00 – 8:30 Coffee with Council Crystal Ballroom C
- 8:30 – 10:00 Emerging Models for Partnerships among Depository Libraries Crystal Ballroom A-B
- Learn about how depository libraries are partnering to preserve and enhance access to depository library collections. Specific models to be addressed are the proposed Southeast Region guidelines for management and disposition of Federal depository collections from the Association of Southeastern Research Libraries (ASERL), the Google digitization project from the Committee on Institutional Cooperation (CIC), and the cooperative projects of the 5 Colleges of Ohio.*
- Judy Russell, Dean of Libraries, University of Florida
 - Mary Prophet, Deputy Director, Head of Government Documents, Dennison University
 - Geoff Swindells, Dept. Head, Government and Geographic Information and Data Services, Northwestern University
- 10:00 – 10:30 Break Crystal Ballroom C
- 10:30 – 12:00 Authentication of Digital Government Information: Why Does It Matter? (Panel discussion) Crystal Ballroom A-B
- Authentication of government information in digital format has been a major concern for law librarians and legal researchers for some time. However, for those in other disciplines—fields such as science, social sciences, and engineering—the integrity of the digital government data used for analysis or experimentation is a matter of considerable importance as well. Panelists will provide varied perspectives on this topic, followed by time for questions from the audience.*
- Scott Matheson, Web Manager, Yale University Library
 - Tim Byrne, Senior Outreach Librarian, U.S. Dept. of Energy
 - Stuart Basefsky, Senior Reference Librarian, School of Industrial & Labor Relations, Cornell University
- 10:30 – 12:00 U.S. Congressional Hearings Hot Topic Project: Strategies for Promoting Government Information Through Increased Awareness of One Resource Type Wilson/Harrison
- This session will introduce the US Congressional Hearings Hot Topics Project, which aims to hook librarians and patrons into seeking and using government information by promoting the use of Congressional hearings as one type of government information relevant to a broad user group of undergraduates. By starting with a Congressional hearing, the user will then discover other relevant government information. The session will outline and discuss strategies to increase the use of Congressional hearings as “hot topic” resources for freshmen/sophomore speech and writing assignments.*
- Carmen Orth-Alfie, Coordinator, Government Information Services, University of Kansas Libraries

Tuesday, Oct. 19

- 10:30 – 11:15 Agency Update: STAT-USA Jackson

- 4:45 – 5:30 The Tale of a Conspiracy Theory Mystery and the Reference Tools that Solved It Wilson/Harrison
- This presentation will take you on an adventure to discover the truth behind a real (or not?) War Department document that sparked an Internet conspiracy theory with roots stretching back 50 years. Along the way, we’ll take pit stops with Andriot, the Monthly Catalog, Google Books Search, Twitter and more to discuss how they can all be used in concert to unravel a complicated knot of truth. (i.e. Reference Question!)*
- Rebecca C. Hyde, U.S. Government Information Librarian, University of California, San Diego

Tuesday, Oct. 19

4:45 – 5:30 The Audit and Certification of GPO's FDsys as a Trustworthy Digital Repository Washington

FDsys will be relied upon by Federal agency publishers and FDLP partner libraries to archive and host digital publications and harvested Web content. What attributes make that FDsys trustworthy? How do we measure reliability? GPO's Preservation Librarian and Program Management Office staff are working together to assess and document FDsys' trustworthy repository status in preparation for managing an external audit of FDsys. GPO's FDsys is scheduled to be the first content management system from a US Federal Government organization certified to be a trusted digital repository.

- David Walls, Preservation Librarian, Collection Management & Preservation, Library Services and Content Management, GPO
- Kate Zwaard, Lead Program Planner, Program Management Office, Information Technology Systems, GPO
