SUBJECT: Fall 2021 Open Forum Lessons Learned Report

Date: April 6, 2022

As Chair of the Collection and Discovery Services Working Group, Depository Library Council, I am pleased to transmit to you the attached report, Collection and Discovery Services Open Forum: The CGP of the Future: Lessons Learned from Depository Library Council's Open Forum, October 20, 2021.

The Collection and Discovery Services Working Group (Working Group) was convened on January 7, 2020 as a standing working group. The Working Group held an open forum at the fall 2021 meeting of the Depository Library Council (October 20, 2021) in accordance with its charter to:

- Act as an open forum for communications among FDLs, GPO, and other stakeholders in the sphere of Federal government information production, dissemination, and utilization
- Act as an open forum for the discussion of major developments in the fields directly impacting the management of FDLP collections and for developing collaborative plans and actions to assist FDLs to incorporate such changes to the operations and workflows

The attached report is a written summary of the Working Group's open forum, held as part of the fall meeting of the Depository Library Council. In preparing this document, the Working Group reviewed the recording, presentation slides, and chat transcripts from the open forum.

Though the CDSWG does not have any recommendations for Council's consideration, we are eager to collaborate with LSCM in support of Council's recommendation from last fall to continue to involve the FDL community in development of the "next generation CGP."

I would like to thank members of the Collection and Discovery Services Working Group who participated in the open forum and who subsequently helped write this report. I also extend my appreciation to the Federal depository library community whose participation made this report possible.

CC: Collection and Discovery Services Working Group
