GPO History

GPO History

- Prior to GPO, printing was performed on contract by newspapers and other private printers.
- The mid 19th century witnessed high costs, ineffective service, and repeated scandals of contract printing.
- In response, Congress established the Government Printing Office, which opened its doors on March 4, 1861
- Renamed the Government Publishing Office in 2014

FDLP History

FDLP History

- Government information has been sent to libraries since 1812; formerly the program was run by the Secretary of State (Act of 1813) and the Department of the Interior (Printing Act of 1852)
- Since 1895, the FDLP has been administered by the U.S. Government Publishing Office (GPO) – formerly known as the Government Printing Office
- The FDLP was established by Congress (44 United States Code §1901-1916) to ensure that the American public has access to its Government's information

Evolution of the FDLP

- Different library types added to program
 - Libraries in executive departments (1895)
 - Military academies (1895)
 - Land grant colleges (1907)
 - Federal agencies (1962)
 - Highest appellate courts of the states (1972)
 - Law libraries (1978)
- Regional/Selective system created
 - Depository Library Act of 1962
 - Regional libraries designated as regionals by a Senator

FDLP Structure and Operation

Who is in the FDLP?

Over 1,100 libraries of all types, located throughout the U.S.A. and its territories, are members of the FDLP

<https://arcg.is/0v4ebK>

Why is the FDLP Important?

- The FDLP identifies, catalogs, and disseminates documents created by Federal government agencies, no matter what the format. This system provides order for government information and makes it visible.
- FDLP libraries provide free, public access to government information to everyone, promoting engagement and knowledge.
- The FDLP's rich collections of historic and current content are unique and important research material for all fields of study.
- The network of FDLP librarians and staff is an unparalleled source of expertise.

How can a library join the FDLP?

- FDLP libraries can be designated by U.S. Senators or U.S. House Representatives
 - Limits:
 - 2 selectives per Congressional district (although redistricting means a district may contain more than two at any given time)
 - 2 selectives designated by Senators per state
 - 2 regionals per state (designated by Senators)
- or “by-law” under specific sections of Title 44, U.S.C.
 - Unlimited number allowed
 - Includes various library types, such as:
 - Land grant colleges
 - Federal agencies and libraries in executive departments
 - Law libraries
 - Military academies
 - Highest appellate state courts

Regionals

- Receive and keep (almost) everything
- Serve as liaisons between the selective libraries in the state (or region) and LSCM
- Provide ILL and reference services to selectives
- Manage weeding, substitution, and the region's collection
- Provide consultation and services to their selectives
- Are designated by U.S. Senators as regional depositories (maximum two regionals per state)

Selectives

- Customize their depository collection
- Select what is suitable for their users and generally retain for at least 5 years
- Support and work with the regional
- May house a portion of the region's collection

Depository Library Council (DLC)

- Established in 1972 to advise the Public Printer (now Director) and the Superintendent of Documents on matters relating to the FDLP.
- Its antecedents go back to 1963 when seven librarians were asked by the Public Printer to serve on an advisory committee on depository libraries.
- The original advisory committee was formed at the recommendation of the Senate Committee on Rules and Administration during its consideration of revised legislation on depository libraries.

Depository Library Council (DLC)

- DLC consists of 15 members appointed by the Director of the GPO. Members serve 3 year terms, with 5 members retiring each year and 5 new members entering. Members may be reappointed for a second term.
- All appointments to Council are made by the Director of the GPO after consideration of recommendations from Council, library associations, and others as deemed appropriate by the Director of the GPO.
- Members represent a cross section of the various types of libraries in the Federal Depository Library Program.
- At least half of the Council's members work in depository libraries and have experience providing services for Government information.

FDLP Resources and Getting Help

The screenshot shows the FDLP website homepage. At the top, there is a navigation bar with 'GPO', 'Contact Us', and 'Login'. Below this is the FDLP logo and a search bar. A horizontal menu contains 'COLLECTION TOOLS', 'REQUIREMENTS & GUIDANCE', 'PRESERVATION', 'ABOUT THE FDLP', and 'CATALOGING & CLASSIFICATION'. The main content area features a large illustration of people working at computers, with several callout boxes: 'FDLP Basics: LEARN ABOUT THE PROGRAM', 'New to GovDocs?: VIEW OUR QUICKSTART GUIDE', and 'Join the FDLP: LEARN ABOUT THE BENEFITS'. There is also a 'LibGuides' section with 'See What's New!' and a 'News & Events' section listing various GPO releases and webinars.
