Customs Matters: Strengthening Customs Administration in a Changing World

Augusto Azael Pérez Azcárraga, Tadatsugu Matsudaira, Gilles Montagnat-Rentier, János Nagy, and R. James Clark

Customs administrations around the world face new challenges: an increasing volume of international trade, a revolution in new technologies, and fundamental changes in business models. The benefits of a well-performing customs administration are clear, as is the need to develop efficient, effective, fair, and modern customs administrations.

This book analyzes the many changes and challenges customs administrations face and proposes ways to address these. It outlines considerations policymakers must take into account as they develop their own road map for modernization.

By offering a cross-sectional view of the main aspects of customs administration, the book guides policymakers and customs officials as they evaluate the current state of their customs system with a view to developing, reinforcing, or relaunching their own road map for customs modernization.

ADVANCE PRAISE:

“Customs Matters: Strengthening Customs Administration in a Changing World offers the reader a better understanding of customs diverse and complex roles in the areas of revenue collection, trade facilitation, and border security, illustrated by a wealth of practical case examples and some valuable insights on the challenges faced. It is a recommended read, not only for individuals directly working in customs and other border agencies, but also for those involved in the development sector, business, and academia.”

—Dr. Kunio Mikuriya, Secretary General of the World Customs Organization

“This book is an excellent study of customs’ complex role and increasing responsibilities in the modern trade environment. Based on the IMF’s extensive field experience, the book details how customs can effectively fulfill its responsibilities of revenue collection, promotion of economic competitiveness, and protection of safety and security, and the importance of the WTO Agreements in that regard. It will be an important resource for all interested in the intersection between trade policy and customs administration.”

—Dr. Ngozi Okonjo-Iweala, Director-General of the World Trade Organization

“Efficient customs are essential for the economies of Central Africa. It is a rare opportunity to have such a comprehensive book that describes and analyzes the main challenges and missions of a modern customs administration. I am confident that this new book, drawn from the IMF’s experience, will be of great value to CEMAC in pursuing its reform and modernization programs.”

Macroprudential Policy Survey Online

The global financial crisis highlighted the need for dedicated macroprudential policy tools to safeguard financial stability and mitigate systemic risk.

The Macroprudential Policy Survey is a free and regularly updated database capturing information on the policy tools in use by the IMF's membership. Countries are asked to report measures in line with the general definition of macroprudential policy: "the use of primarily prudential tools to limit systemic risk."

This new database also features information on the institutional arrangements supporting macroprudential policy in IMF member countries. The survey information fills an important data gap for researchers and policymakers. It can be used to support research in this emerging area—for example, to assess the impact of measures on credit and asset prices. It will also help policymakers learn about the design of other IMF members' policy measures.
