

Peeling the Onion with Fewer Tears: Cataloging in Primo/Alma to Enhance Discovery & Access

Bound-with Items

Bound together reports/volumes of government documents (bound-withs) pose unique cataloging challenges in discovery and circulation.

- On regular open shelving the call number is used to locate items, even if they are bound together with other items.
- When a volume is checked out, the separate bibliographic records for each item should be updated to identify its availability status.
- In our automated storage software, the barcode is used to retrieve items and each bibliographic record must be linked to that barcode.

Bound-with Items

What are the issues we've had to consider regarding Bound-With?

- Shared bibliographic records with 39 other institutions – state universities and state colleges across Florida
- Automated storage system requires public users to submit retrieval requests rather than open shelves
- Alma only allows barcode numbers to be associated with a single item
- Borrowing a bound volume checks out all bound titles

Additional Considerations

- MMS – Build Record Relations Job
- Local Fields in a Shared Bibliographic Catalog – buggy; related titles displaying in other institutions
- Orphan Records – no holdings or items get suppressed or deleted
- Serials Records in Bound Withs or multi part monographs require holdings and dummy records – still investigating

Enable Alma collections items linked to logical sets to be updated as the set changes

Currently it seems that Alma Collections can only be updated by manually adding individual items or adding items from sets. If the set is a logical set, as new items that fulfill the set search criteria are added, could they also automatically update the Alma Collection. This would save having to manually maintain Alma Collections to some degree.

Best Practices

Keep end users in mind

- Bibliographic record readable
- Availability & retrieval process
- Computer screen – “above the fold”
– use subfolders
- Visually distinct banners

Trouble-shooting

- Internal communication
- Cross-institution discussions
- Vendor wishlists for new features

Stay patient
