FDsys

• Allow federated searching of FDsys from the discovery layer of integrated library systems
• expand legal resources available on FDsys
• Design FDsys so that it is easier and more intuitive to search.
• ... faster updates to the U.S. Code
• create user-friendly discovery platforms as higher percentages of government information is born digital.
• Greater emphasis on electronic access with user friendly search tools for the public
• All current and retrospective federal information would be freely available through FDsys.gov
• Better digital access including enhanced metadata cataloging records
• The FDLP will do a better job of meeting user needs if it can provide more historical resources online with better and more commonly used discovery tools.
• User friendly GUI to larger volume of Government docs
• An easy to use interface, common language searching, historical primary information
• more powerful searching, training, web page development. Tangibles should continue to be a part of the program.

State Library Forecast:

This FDLP State Forecast builds on the responses of individual FDLP libraries in your state. It represents a consensus of opinion at the state level of the FDLP libraries in a state and should be based on the responses to the FDLP Library Forecasts submitted by FDLP members in your state and discourse at the state level among FDLP members about plans or intentions that are designed to serve the state as a whole. Individuals with primary responsibility for FDLP collections within your state are encouraged to meet, discuss the state and library FDLP Forecast questionnaire answers, and collaborate to produce responses at the State level.
