Depository Library Council Meeting and Federal Depository Library Conference

October 16 – 18, 2017

DoubleTree Hotel — 300 Army Navy Drive, Arlington, VA 22202

AGENDA

MONDAY, October 16

| 8:00 – 8:30 | Registration / Coffee with Council | |

| 8:30 – 9:00 | Disaster Preparedness and Response in the FDLP – Hurricanes Harvey & Irma | Washington Ballroom |

- Melissa Fairfield, Planning Specialist, LSCM, GPO
- Angela Kent, Head of Reference, Texas State Library and Archives Commission
- Tom Fischlschweiger, Senior Librarian, Broward County Main Library
- Jane Canfield, Coordinadora Documentos Federales, Biblioteca Encarnación Valdés, Pontificia Universidad Católica

Hurricanes Harvey, Irma, and Maria recently took their toll on many of the Nation's libraries. Hear staff from GPO, regional libraries, and libraries that were directly affected by these disasters talk about efforts to protect libraries and preserve public access in the wake of the unimaginable.

| 8:30 – 9:00 | New Attendees Orientation | Wilson / Harrison |

- Joe Paskoski, Senior Outreach Librarian, LSCM, GPO
- Kathy Carmichael, Outreach Librarian, LSCM, GPO

Attending this event for the first time? Outreach Librarians Kathy Carmichael and Joe Paskoski will provide newcomers with an overview of the conference, offer tips to get the most out of the conference, and answer your questions.

| 9:00 – 10:00 | 2017 Depository Library Council Meeting & Federal Depository Library Conference Kickoff | Crystal Ballroom |

- Davita Vance-Cooks, Director, GPO
- Laurie Beyer Hall, Acting Superintendent of Documents, GPO
- Jim Shaw, Acting DLC Chair, University of Nebraska at Omaha, Dr. C.C. & Mabel L. Criss Library

During this opening session, the event will be officially called to order, and opening remarks and updates will be delivered.

| 10:00 – 10:30 | Break | |

| 10:00 – 5:45 | Poster walk-through | Van Buren |

10:30 - 11:30	Keynote – Dr. Carla Hayden, Librarian of Congress	Crystal Ballroom
	Join us for a special keynote presentation from the Librarian of Congress, Dr. Carla Hayden, followed by the presentation of the 2017 Library of the Year award, with GPO Director Davita Vance-Cooks.
11:30 – 1:30	Lunch Break On Your Own (Regional/Selective suggested lunch)
1:30 – 3:00	Council Session – Title 44 Reform • The members of the Depository Library Council This summer, GPO Director Davita Vance-Cooks charged the DLC with making recommendations for changes to Chapter 19, Title 44 of the U.S. Code. Join the DLC for an afternoon of discussion about Title 44 reform, the specific areas of Chapter 19 that have been targeted, and the input the DLC received from the FDLP community over the last several months. *This session will focus on 44 U.S.C. §§1901, 1902, 1904, 1909.	Crystal Ballroom
1:30 – 2:15	Starting with the A's: Inventorying a Large Regional Collection • Renee Bosman, Government Information Librarian, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Davis Library • Wendy Isicson, Special Projects Coordinator, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Davis Library The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill has been a depository since 1884 and, like many libraries, much of its pre-1976 holdings are not represented in the online catalog. This presentation will describe the Government Documents Inventory Project -- a long-term, comprehensive inventory and retrospective cataloging project that began in 2016. The project team includes staff from both public and technical services units, as well as library science students, so we'll discuss project management strategies used to organize staff from different departments. We'll also share training strategies, workflows, and ways in which we are assessing and measuring the project's impact.	Washington Ballroom
1:30 – 3:00	GPO's Library Technical Services Update • Fang Gao, Chief of Library Technical Services, LSCM, GPO • Stephen Kharfen, Supervisory Librarian, LSCM, GPO • Marty Bokow, Librarian (Database Integrity & Authority Control), LSCM, GPO • Kristina Bobe, Senior Planning and Development Specialist, LSCM, GPO • Liselle Drake, Cataloging Librarian, LSCM, GPO Learn about Library Technical Services (LTS) activities, including: • An overview of collection development, ECIP, and other major projects undertaken by LTS staff. • Updates on the GPO Cataloging Guidelines, GPO cataloging/metadata policies, and bibliographic control activities. • Highlights of authority control work, plus examples of subject and name authority records. • An update on the Classification Guidelines. • A summary of GPO's exploratory activities to prepare for future Linked Data efforts.	Wilson / Harrison

1:30 – 2:15	Resources from GSA's Office of Products and Programs	Jackson

- Victoria Wales, Digital Innovation Specialist, USAGov
- David Kaufmann, Federal Information Specialist, USAGov

The General Services Administration (GSA), Office of Products and Programs (OPP) makes Government better. We offer direct public services and shared services to agencies to help them innovate and meet policy mandates. Programs like USAGov, Data.gov, and DigitalGov Search can help you help your customers. We'll let you know what's on our menu!

2:15 – 3:00	Tending the Commons at the American Folklife Center	Washington Ballroom

- Todd Harvey, Reference Librarian/Curator, Library of Congress, American Folklife Center,
- John Fenn, Head of Research and Programs, Library of Congress, American Folklife Center

Created by Congress in 1976, the American Folklife Center exists at the Library of Congress to "preserve and present American folklife" through programs of research, documentation, archival preservation, reference service, live performance, exhibitions, public programs, and training. The Center includes the American Folklife Center Archive of Folk Culture, which was established in 1928 and is now one of the largest collections of ethnographic material from the United States and around the world. This presentation will provide an introduction to the rich, multi-format collections in the Archive, as well as an overview of the range of resources the American Folklife Center offers patrons.

2:15 – 3:00	Celebrating Documents Librarians: Strengths, Challenges, and Opportunities for Your Career in the SuDocs Stacks & Beyond	Jackson

- Rebecca Hyde, Research & Instruction Librarian, Saint Louis University, Pius XII Memorial Library
- Catherine Morse, Government Information, Law and Political Science Librarian, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, University Library
- Lucia Orlando, Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences and Government Information Librarian, University of California, Santa Cruz, McHenry Library
- Jesse Silva, Librarian for Federal and State Government Information, Political Science, Public Policy and Legal Studies, University of California, Berkeley, Charles Franklin Doe Memorial Library
- Charmaine Henriques, International Studies Librarian, Indiana University Bloomington, Herman B. Wells Library

Over the last decade, there have been significant changes in the library landscape, especially in the Government documents domain. Gone are the fully staffed, stand-alone documents departments with their specialized staff that were solely dedicated to the business of Government publications. Now, service points have merged, processing and technical services activities have been integrated into the larger library organization, departments have been downsized, and documents professionals may wear multiple hats or are responsible for several subject areas within their home institutions. Meanwhile, Government information is still perceived to be an oddity that the majority of our non-documents colleagues reject. However, the Government documents world offers librarians an opportunity to develop a diverse skill set that traverses the field of librarianship and in turn encourages unique perspectives, inventive problem solving, and an in-depth understanding of the information life cycle. This session will have a panel of Federal Documents Librarians/Depository Coordinators who will discuss how their work with U.S. Government information has informed and influenced their non-documents assignments.

3:00 – 3:30	Break
3:30 – 4:30	Council Session – Title 44 Reform • The members of the Depository Library Council Continuing the discussion of Chapter 19, Title 44, join the DLC for this session that focuses on 44 U.S.C. §§1911-1912 and the input they received from the FDLP community regarding these sections of Chapter 19.	Crystal Ballroom
3:30 –5:00	Maintaining Collection Access in the Midst of Chaos: Two Federal Depository Libraries' Modernization/Renovation Odysseys • Carolyn Frenger, Library Technician, U.S. Department of the Interior Library • George Franchois, Library Director, U.S. Department of the Interior Library • Judy Din, Head of Technical Services, U.S. Department of the Interior Library • Megan Wagner, Government Documents Librarian, California State University, Fullerton, Pollak Library Library modernizations and renovations present many challenges and opportunities for the library staffs involved in them. Federal depository libraries can face unique expectations during these physical/structural changes including what to do about keeping their depository and other collections accessible to their patrons during the construction process. More often than not, library collections are relocated to another local library or sent to off-site storage facilities to ensure access. This panel discussion features librarians and staff from the California State University Fullerton's Pollak Library and the U.S. Department of the Interior's Library sharing their experiences and lessons learned during their recently completed or ongoing library construction and maintaining collection accessibility.	Washington Ballroom
3:30 – 5:00	FDLP eXchange • Lisa Russell, Senior Program Analyst, LSCM, GPO This session will provide an update and demonstration of the FDLP eXchange tool that GPO is developing to manage the Needs and Offers process. This will include a nuts and bolts view of how the application will work for both regional and selective depositories.	Wilson / Harrison
4:30 – 4:45	Crystal Ballroom Break

4:45 – 5:45	Council Session – Title 44 Reform • The members of the Depository Library Council • Cindy Etkin, Sr. Program Planning Specialist, Office of the Superintendent of Documents, GPO Join the DLC for this session that focuses on their recommendation to add a new section to Chapter 19, grants for Federal depository libraries, followed by suggestions for Title 44 modernization from the Superintendent of Documents organization.	Crystal Ballroom
5:00 – 5:45	GPO's Trusted Digital Repository Certification Status and Update • Jessica Tieman, Preservation Expert, Office of the Superintendent of Documents, GPO This session will provide an overview of GPO's current progress and status in achieving ISO 16363 Trusted Digital Repository certification for govinfo.	Wilson / Harrison
5:00 – 5:45	To SuDoc or Not: Organizing Your Documents Collection to Meet Your Patrons' Needs • Kate Irwin-Smiler, Reference Librarian, Wake Forest University School of Law, Professional Center Library • Cate Kellett, Catalog and Government Documents Librarian and Lecturer in Legal Research, Yale University, Lillian Goldman Law Library • Scott Matheson, Associate Librarian for Technical Services and Lecturer in Legal Research, Yale University, Lillian Goldman Law Library The FDLP allows individual libraries the freedom to arrange collections in the way that best suits local needs. Depository libraries of all kinds have made a variety of physical and classification decisions over time. As needs evolve, those decisions may need to be revisited. We will discuss how and when those decisions should be evaluated and what is involved in revising these collection decisions and processes associated with them.	Jackson

TUESDAY, October 17

8:00 – 8:30	Coffee with Council
8:00 – 5:30	Poster Presentation	Van Buren
8:30 – 9:15	Keynote – How Librarians Saved Civilization • James LaRue, Director, ALA's Office for Intellectual Freedom A founding principle of our Nation is the First Amendment. A founding principle of librarianship is unfettered access to information, and the preservation of our cultural memory. Sometimes, librarians defend knowledge through rousing advocacy. Sometimes, we have to take a quieter, less visible role - like Dark Ages Irish monks who maintained historic texts until the world was ready for them again. What are our obligations in a time when science and fact are themselves under attack?	Crystal Ballroom

9:15 – 10:00	Council Session – The Continuing Transformation of Access to Government Information: Grants, Models, and Processes in the FDLP • Anthony D. Smith, Chief, Projects and Systems, LSCM, GPO • Robin Haun-Mohamed, Chief, Outreach & Support, LSCM, GPO One of the DLC's Title 44 reform recommendations is to add a new section to Chapter 19, authorizing grants for Federal depository libraries. This session will provide a general overview of the Federal grant-making process and present a general concept for a grant program to support the mission of the FDLP. The presenters will be seeking feedback, suggestions, and ideas from those in attendance.	Crystal Ballroom
9:15 – 10:00	When Women Didn't Count: Gaps in Federal Statistics • Robert Lopresti, Government Information Librarian, Western Washington University, Western Libraries Robert Lopresti will discuss his new book, When Women Didn't Count*, which shows how women have been hidden and misrepresented in Federal statistics. Subjects include marriage and motherhood, homemakers and gainful employment, factory work and farmers, and much more.*	Washington Ballroom
9:15 - 10:00	New Additions: Enhancements to the CGP and Related Services • Patricia A. Duplantis, Systems Librarian, LSCM, GPO Attendees will be guided through a brief tour of the additions and enhancements to the Catalog of U.S. Government Publications (CGP) and related services. The recent CGP, Federal Depository Library Directory (FDLD), and MetaLib enhancements will be explored and future enhancements mentioned. There will also be an opportunity to ask questions and provide feedback as we look toward the future Library Services System (LSS).	Wilson / Harrison
9:15 – 10:00	Introducing ROSA-P: The National Transportation Library's Repository and Open Science Access Portal • Mary Moulton, Digital Librarian, National Transportation Library • Leighton Christiansen, Data Curator, National Transportation Library • Laura Farley, NTL Fellow, National Transportation Library • Xin Wang, Systems Librarian, National Transportation Library Founded as a born-digital library, the National Transportation Library (NTL) provides open access to full-text digital publications, datasets, and other resources of interest to transportation researchers and public stakeholders. NTL recently completed migration of its digital collections to an open source platform, ROSA-P. This case study will cover planning, metadata review, standards, clean-up, migration, policy revision, knowledge base creation, testing, and promotion.	Jackson

| 10:30 – 12:00 | Tangible and Digital Preservation: Bridging the Divide by Preserving Government Information in All Formats | Crystal Ballroom |

- David Walls, Preservation Librarian, LSCM, GPO
- Thomas Mills, Director, Kresge Law Library, Notre Dame Law School
- Jana Ronan, Interim Regional Government Documents Librarian, Chair, Humanities & Social Sciences Library, University of Florida, Library West
- Gwen Sinclair, Head of Government Documents & Maps, University of Hawaiʻi at Mānoa Library
- Chelsea Dinsmore, Director of Digital Production Services, University of Florida, George A. Smathers Libraries
- Dory Bower, Senior Archival Specialist, LSCM, GPO
- Abbie Grotke, Lead Information Technology Specialist, Web Archiving Team, Library of Congress

Join GPO and members of the depository community to discuss efforts to preserve tangible and digital Government information. Recent GPO Preservation Stewards will share their experiences becoming a Steward and managing a Preservation Steward collection. GPO staff will present information on how libraries can deposit digitized content in FDsys/govinfo and will share the perspective of a library that has deposited digitized content. Finally, GPO staff and another participant in the Federal Web Archiving Working Group will discuss efforts to preserve born-digital information.

10:30 – 11:15 Scanning and Geo-Rectification of South Carolina's Historic Aerial Photography 1930s-1980s — Washington Ballroom

- Bill Sudduth, Head, Government Information & Maps, University of South Carolina, Thomas Cooper Library

This session will provide an overview of the process from identifying funding, digitization, geo-rectification to web product of South Carolina's Historic Aerial Photography held by the University of South Carolina's Thomas Cooper Library covering the 1930s through the early 1980s.

10:30 – 12:00 Sizzle, Don't Fizzle! Tools & Resources for Promoting Your Library, Using Social Media, & Celebrating Milestones — Wilson / Harrison

- Kelly Seifert, Strategic Communications Coordinator, LSCM, GPO
- Scott Pauley, Writer/Editor, LSCM, GPO
- Andie Craley, Depository Coordinator, Harford Community College Library

During this panel session, first learn about new GPO tools and resources you can use to promote the FDLP on your website, in the library, and via social media. A variety of tips and best practices will be shared. Next, hear about Harford Community College's 50th anniversary celebration in the FDLP, the activities they hosted, and how they promoted the events and celebrations.

10:30 – 11:15	The U.S. Courts: Our Library Program, PACER, and Opinions in FDsys	Jackson

- Wendell Skidgel, Attorney Advisor, Court Services Office Department of Program Services, Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts
- Sarah Rhodes, National Library Program Administrator, Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts

This session, presented by Wendell Skidgel and Sarah Rhodes of the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts, will focus on the Federal courts' library and electronic public access programs. Sarah will provide an overview of the U.S. Courts National Library Program, including its history and unique organizational structure, as well as its transforming services, spaces, and resources. Wendell will discuss PACER, specifically the future of opinions in PACER and the Access and Education Program developed in collaboration with the FDLP and the American Association of Law Libraries (AALL). He will also provide information about the availability of Federal court opinions in FDsys.

11:15 – 12:00	Effective Relationships Among Depository Libraries	Washington Ballroom

- Hallie Pritchett, Head, Map & Government Information Library, University of Georgia, Map & Government Information Library
- Laurie Aycock, Government Documents & Monographs Collection Development Librarian, Kennesaw State University, Horace W. Sturgis Library
- Thomas Waters, Government Documents Associate, University of West Georgia, Irvine Sullivan Ingram Library

The Georgia State Plan for Federal Depository Libraries, revised in Spring 2017, describes how depositories "work individually and collectively to ensure that all residents...have physical and intellectual access to Federal Government information in all formats." Based on the experiences of Georgia's regional and two of its selective depository libraries, this presentation will examine the ways that depositories can establish relationships and maintain communication in order to solve problems and provide the best possible access to Government information.

11:15 – 12:00	How the Prevalence of Federal Digital Information Has Affected Agency Information Strategies: Results of Case Study Research	Jackson

- Ramón J. Miró, Project Manager, Federal Research Division, Library of Congress
- Cindy Etkin, Sr. Program Planning Specialist, Office of the Superintendent of Documents, GPO

GPO entered into an interagency agreement with the Federal Research Division of the Library of Congress to conduct research on how Federal agency information policies and practices changed with the migration from tangible to digital or online information products. You won't want to miss this session where the preliminary findings of the research will be shared.

12:00 – 2:00	Lunch Break On Your Own

1:00 – 2:30	Poster Session	Van Buren

Meet and talk with the poster presenters.

2:00 – 3:30	LSCM Update / Open Forum • Laurie Hall, Acting Superintendent of Documents, GPO • Fang Gao, Chief, Library Technical Services, LSCM, GPO • Robin Haun-Mohamed, Chief, Outreach & Support, LSCM, GPO • Anthony D. Smith, Chief, Projects and Systems, LSCM, GPO • Kelly Seifert, Strategic Communications Coordinator, LSCM, GPO In this two-part session: • Join GPO for an update of major projects and initiatives underway to support the FDLP and Cataloging & Indexing Program in GPO's LSCM unit. • Participate in a Q&A session.	Crystal Ballroom
2:00 – 2:45	Small-Scale Web Archiving in an Age of Uncertainty • Kelly Smith, Government Information/Urban Studies & Planning Librarian, University of California San Diego, The Library For many of us, the 2016 Presidential election created a heightened sense of urgency for archiving Federal websites. This presentation will offer a look at what one librarian is doing to help preserve Federal web pages using the Internet Archive's Wayback Machine; offer tips for effectively using Wayback features to archive without using additional human/technical resources; and engage the audience to share their own "guerrilla" archiving strategies and suggestions.	Washington Ballroom
2:00 – 2:45	Developing a Shared Regional Depository: Benefits and Challenges • Stephanie Carter, Government Documents and Maps Librarian, New Mexico State University, Branson Library • Monica Dorame, Library Operations Manager, University of New Mexico, University Libraries In 2016, a shared regional depository was established between the University of New Mexico, New Mexico State University, and the New Mexico State Library. This presentation will describe how the plan for the shared regional was developed and implemented. It will also discuss some of the benefits of sharing the regional collection, the challenges, and solutions that the three libraries have discovered throughout the process.	Wilson / Harrison
2:00 – 2:45	The NASA Scientific and Technical Information (STI) Program: A Century of Research (That's right, 100 years) • Gerald Steeman, Technical Publications Manager, NASA STI Program Office Gerald Steeman will provide an overview of NASA, its 10 field centers, and its predecessor organization, the National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics (NACA). NASA and NACA combine to have a 100-year legacy of premier scientific and technical research conducted on behalf of the Nation. The STI Program, founded in the early years of NASA, inherited much from NACA organizations like the Paris Office and the technical publication offices and libraries of the early centers—Langley, Lewis, and Ames. For decades, the Program managed an offsite facility known as the Center for AeroSpace Information (CASI) which served as the clearinghouse for documents and microfiche. With the advent of the internet and digital collections, the need for an offsite processing facility ceased and CASI closed. Mr. Steeman will highlight current STI services and products, most notably the NASA Technical Reports Server (NTRS), the Research Access effort, and the Program's five-year strategic plan.	Jackson

2:45 – 3:30	Government Information Online: Government Research Assistance to the World	Washington Ballroom

- Robbie Sittel, Government Information Librarian, University of North Texas, Eagle Commons Library
- Gwen Sinclair, Head of Government Documents & Maps, University of Hawai'i at Mānoa Library

This session will provide a historical overview of the Government Information Online service and will present an update on the program's current status. Volunteers are being sought to serve as Government research specialists.

2:45 – 3:30	Regional Models Outside the Box	Wilson / Harrison

- Alicia Kubas, Government Publications & Regional Depository Librarian, University of Minnesota-Twin Cities, Wilson Library

Pushing for flexibility for regional depositories has become paramount in the FDLP community as we consider sustainability of the Program as it currently functions under Title 44. Providing an opportunity to explore other models for regionals is one way to allow this flexibility as each region has different needs and limitations. This presentation will delve into two nontraditional regional models--shared regional and multi-state regional. We will examine the policies and processes in North Dakota as a shared regional and Minnesota as a multi-state regional and then discuss how and why these models and regional depositories have been successful.

2:45 – 3:30	The Patent Office and Its Publications	Jackson

- Rob Berry, Manager, Patent and Trademark Resource Center Program, USPTO
- Tiffany Mair, Librarian, Patent and Trademark Resource Center Program, USPTO

A key to understanding patents is knowing the components of a modern utility patent. Accordingly, this presentation will review the front page information on patents (identifying the invention, the inventor, and providing detailed classification information), as well as the specification (providing a detailed explication of the invention, cross-referencing drawings, and providing a foundation for the inventors' claims). Once the components of the modern document are understood, the available fields in USPTO's Patents Full-Text database will be easily recognizable.

The presentation will also briefly contrast the modern patent documents with their historic predecessors which were granted under different standards and, before 1836, consisted of a partial, reconstructed collection, the X-patents. The presentation will briefly mention additional improvement, design, and plant patents.

Although a discussion of the wide area of documents published by the Patent Office would be beyond the scope of this presentation, handouts covering this material will be distributed and very briefly introduced.

3:30 – 4:00	Break

| 4:00 – 5:30 | Council Session – Sunshine on Our Shoulders: Open Government, Open Scholarship | Crystal Ballroom |

- Robbie Sittel (Panel Moderator), Head, Eagle Commons Library, University of North Texas Libraries
- Laura Sare, Government Information Librarian, Texas A&M University, Sterling C. Evans Library
- Allyson Rodriguez, Electronic Resources Librarian, University of North Texas Libraries
- Anita Walz, Open Education, Copyright, and Scholarly Communication Librarian, Virginia Tech

This program is intended to be an introduction to academic activities related to Open Educational Resources (OER) and a conversation among experts about overlapping issues in OER, scholarly communications, and the Government documents community. The goal is to explore ways in which our shared commitment to removing barriers to information access can collectively improve our work in these seemingly disparate fields.

| 4:00 – 5:30 | Topical (& Language-Specific) Web Guides Featuring U.S. Government Web Sites | Washington Ballroom |

- Naomi Lederer, College Liaison Librarian, Colorado State University, Morgan Library

Specific existing web guides will be shown and the rationale and thought behind the formatting thereof described. There are many U.S. (& state) Government materials in Spanish, and pulling a useful collection together helps make it easier to show them to Spanish readers. Another guide on food demonstrates how certain topics lend themselves to guides that consist almost exclusively of Government resources. The presenter's "food" guide created for her university's first year composition program was liked so much (and was the site's most used page) that her proposed future ones on energy and water have been enthusiastically requested! (These will be completed for fall 2018—food will be used again in the 2017-18 academic year.) Also covered will be Government sites useful for history research. This highlights the opportunities that may exist to promote Government resources via curricular means. In addition, Government resources are useful for non-academic communities. There will be brainstorming with the attendees for other possible topical venues. While much of the time will be spent on showing the page and links of interest, discussion of future topical areas to consider will be part of the session. Attendees are invited to provide URLs for other topical Government websites they use on a regular basis so that they may be added to the presenter's "other Government access points" part of her guide and thereby shared with all attendees and anyone who discovers them on the web. It should be a great opportunity to share favorites and learn about other gems.

4:00 – 5:30	New govinfo Content, Enhancements, and Data Tools	Wilson / Harrison

- Amanda Colvin; Program Planner; Programs, Strategy, & Technology (PST); GPO
- Suzanne Ebanues, Senior Planning & Development Specialist, LSCM, GPO
- Jon Quandt, Lead Program Planner, PST, GPO

This session will bring you up-to-speed on several initiatives related to GPO's beta govinfo (www.govinfo.gov) website and Federal Digital System (www.fdsys.gov).
- 4:00-4:30: Content Update – New public access to digitized historical content, including the Bound Congressional Record and the Federal Register.
- 4:30-5:00: Enhancements Update – Latest features and functionality including more links to related documents and efforts in the transition from FDsys to govinfo.
- 5:00-5:30: Tools for Working with Data – Learn about using RSS notifications, API link service, bulk data, sitemaps, and GitHub.

4:00 – 4:45	The National Archives: What's in It for Me?	Jackson

- Meg Phillips, External Affairs Liaison, National Archives and Records Administration

The National Archives is our Nation's record keeper! The Archives identifies, preserves, and provides access to permanently valuable records - primary sources - created by all three branches of the U.S. Government, in electronic and analog form. Learn what you and your patrons can find at the Archives, find out about free online resources (including millions of records online), and learn tips for effective archival research. The National Archives has some great resources for you!

4:45 – 5:30	Hidden Treasures: Art and Other Cultural Collections of U.S Federal Government Agencies	Jackson

- Carolyn Frenger, Library Technician, U.S. Department of the Interior, DOI Library

Ask an average American to name a U.S. Government entity that has an art or other cultural collection; chances are the answers might include places like the Smithsonian Institution, the National Gallery of Art, maybe even the White House. However, there is an extensive list of other U.S. Federal Government agencies with impressive collections of art and other cultural artifacts that people probably aren't aware of. This presentation will explore the wide range of U.S. Federal Government agencies' collections held in Washington, D.C., across the United States, and around the world in places like U.S. embassies in foreign countries, including what each collection contains, the history behind each collection, how the agency acquires its artistic and cultural holdings, if these collections are accessible to the general public, and the methods used by the individual agencies to preserve and maintain their inventories.

5:30	Posters Close	Van Buren

6:30 – 8:00	Regional Meeting	Washington Ballroom

Join regional depository staff as they discuss the following topics from a regional library perspective:
- Puerto Rico
- Changes to Title 44
- GODORT –Title 44 and other updates
- FDLP eXchange
- Preservation Stewards

WEDNESDAY, October 18

8:00 – 8:30	Coffee with Council

8:30 – 9:15	Keynote – The Law Library of Congress: Permanent Public Access to All Congressional Materials • Jane Sánchez, Law Librarian of Congress The Law Library of Congress plays a special role in safeguarding laws – not just for the United States but for all nations – while simultaneously allowing access to global legal materials. Former Managing Director of the GPO's Library Services and Content Management unit, Jane Sánchez, offers a perspective on the responsibility of permanent public access in her current role as Law Librarian of Congress.	Crystal Ballroom

8:30 – 10:00	Council Working Session • Jim Shaw, Acting DLC Chair, University of Nebraska at Omaha, Dr. C.C. & Mabel L. Criss Library • The members of the Depository Library Council Council business and a discussion of potential recommendations to GPO	Jackson

9:15 – 10:00	Answering the Call: WWI Posters for Campus and Community Outreach • Angela Bonnell, Head of Government Documents, Illinois State University, Milner Library Following the 2014 launch of Answering the Call, an official GPO Partnership of digitized World War I posters, Illinois State University's Milner Library has successfully promoted the digitized and print posters for on-campus and community collaborations. The posters have been incorporated into the curricula of wide-ranging graduate, undergraduate, and high school courses, as well as serving as the central focus in statewide symposia and local public library programming. Once hidden, the historic collection is now highlighted and in turn serves to publicize the depository collection and other primary source materials.	Crystal Ballroom

9:15 – 10:00	Saving Face: A Critical Examination of Participatory Government • Kathryn Tallman, Interim Head, Government Information Library, University of Colorado-Boulder, Norlin Library • Allan Van Hoye, Government Information Librarian, University of Colorado-Boulder, Norlin Library We cannot safeguard Government Information if we do not acknowledge the voices excluded from the conversation. Who doesn't vote and why? What is the role of FDLP Libraries in helping people engage with Government? How do we as librarians reinforce systems that marginalize people? Let's look beyond our collections and ask ourselves: what do we really mean when we say 'access for all'? Join us in a discussion about these issues, and let's work together to develop tools, resources, and strategies that we can all use to acknowledge these voices and make our depositories more inclusive for all!	Washington Ballroom

9:15 – 10:00	New U.S. Government Online Bookstore • Jeff Turner, Chief of Publications Sales and Marketing, Publication and Information Sales (P&IS), GPO • Trudy Hawkins, Senior Promotion Specialist, P&IS, GPO This session will provide a demonstration of the new U.S. Government Online Bookstore, which gives libraries and the public access to a wide variety of Federal publications in print and eBook formats. The new bookstore is designed to work more seamlessly with cell phones and tablets; to provide enhanced security for purchases via Pay.gov; and to enable internet search engines to find Federal content more quickly, easily, and accurately.	Wilson / Harrison
