Text in notification emails is not working correctly. Text says "Since yesterday, !count new offers have been added to the FDLP eXchange repository. Click here [1] to review." Link provided does not work. "!count" should be a number.	Unresolved
When a selective updates their library profile, the system updates the regional review and selective review timeframes to reset them back to the default time frames (45 days each). The system should be updating this information from the timeframes established in the regional's library account.	Unresolved		Having this information update when the regional changes the timeframes is new development.
Users are unable to use the system when their library has too many "uncleared notifications" because the large number of uncleared notifications causes the page to "break" when it is loading.	Resolved/ Recurring		This is currently a recurring problem. We are fixing this as a "one off" when it occurs for the library that reported it and libraries nearing the threshold. A longterm fix is planned for the next round of development.
When entries are added through the manual input form, the system allows users to remove the publication date and check the "Item doesn't have a date" box. When the record is saved, the system is saving 2019 in the publication date field.	Unresolved		The system requires something in the date field when it saves the record, but it needs to be something that is not misleading.
