- Geoff Swindells, Council Chair
- 8:30 - 9:15 Getting Published – You Can Do It! Pershing East/West
- Peter Kraus, Federal Documents Librarian, J. Willard Marriott library, University of Utah
- Tenure requirements are becoming increasingly stringent at colleges and universities around the country. More and more university administrators are looking at the scholarly productivity of those with faculty status to judge their performance as professionals. Learn about the ins and outs of publishing in academia, you can do it!*
- 9:15 - 10:00 Governmental Resources on Space Warfare and Defense Pershing East/West
- Bert Chapman, Government Information and Political Science Librarian, HSSE Library, Purdue University
- This presentation will focus on U.S. government and military resources on space warfare and defense. These are produced by military agencies such as the Air Force and Defense Department, and by intelligence agencies such as the National Reconnaissance Office.*
- 10:00 - 10:30 Break Pershing North/South
- 10:30 - 12:00 Council Session: Collaboration with GPO Century Ballroom C

  - Mark Sandler, Director, Center for Library Initiatives, Committee on Institutional Cooperation
  - Katrina Stierholz, Director of Library and Research Information, Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis
- This session will allow Council, GPO, and the attendees to share ideas on how to increase collaboration. GPO will highlight its ongoing efforts to collaborate with other Federal agencies and depository libraries and explain how a partnership is developed. Attendees will be given the opportunity to share thoughts on this topic, including projects that might be good candidates for a partnership, constraints they may face in becoming a partner, etc.*
- 10:30 - 12:00 "Now it's Your Turn: Gi21 Hits the Road" Pershing East/West
- Debra S Van Tassel, University of Colorado at Boulder
  - Kirsten Clark, University of Minnesota
  - Jennifer Gerke, University of Colorado at Boulder
  - Peggy Jobe, University of Colorado at Boulder
- The success of the Government Information in the 21st Century IMLS grant project continues to exceed expectations, but this project ends in September, 2008. Now it's your turn to consider how this model can be implemented in your geographic area. Members of the current Gi21 team will provide a brief overview of the process and discuss the plans and timeline for a new grant. Breakout sessions, moderated by current team members, will provide an opportunity for regional and selective librarians to consider how they might partner and participate in a new grant and training opportunity. A wrap-up will bring everyone together to share their ideas and questions.*
