

Enhancing Access to State Government Information

At the Connecticut State Library

✦ Julie Schwartz

THE PROBLEM

- ✦ Many Connecticut state reports, statistics, and databases are now accessible only on the Web.
- ✦ Reports may be put up one year and disappear the next year.
- ✦ Search engines are not precise enough to provide adequate access to these key resources.

What have libraries traditionally done to organize information?

- ✦ Select
- ✦ Organize (Catalog & Classify)
- ✦ Provide Access
- ✦ Preserve

What is CORC?

- ✦ Cooperative Online Resource Catalog
- ✦ A “metadata creation system” for bibliographic records and pathfinders that describe electronic resources.

Why CORC?

- ✦ Provides a toolkit for accomplishing these traditional library tasks in the digital environment.
- ✦ Allows creation of records in Dublin Core or MARC formats, and export in MARC, HTML or XML.
- ✦ Automatic assigning of metadata descriptors to multiple or single URL's.
- ✦ Easy record updating and exporting to our Catalog.

CORC at the CT State Library

- ✦ 1999-2000 CORC Founders' Phase
created 300 CORC records
- ✦ 2000-2001 Produced over 1200 records for
CT Office of Legislative Research Reports
- ✦ 2000-2001 Produced over 600 records for key state agency publications

Integrating records into the OPAC

- ✦ The CORC records are supplied by our catalogers (including authority control work and subject cataloging).
- ✦ Records are integrated into our Innovative Interfaces OPAC.
- ✦ Records are added to OCLC's WorldCat Database

RESOURCE SHARING

A Worldwide Database

- ✦ 46 million cataloging records created by libraries around the world.
- ✦ 4000 years of recorded history, in 400 languages.
- ✦ Includes over 800,000,000 location listings.

CONNECTICUT INMATES INCARCERATED IN VIRGINIA
By: Sandra Norman-Eady, Senior Attorney

You wanted to know the number of Connecticut inmates who are (1) currently incarcerated in Virginia by facility and (2) covered under the contract between the Connecticut and Virginia departments of correction.

There are presently 461 Connecticut inmates incarcerated in Virginia. Of these, 289 are at Wallens Ridge State Prison and 172 are at Greenville Correctional Center. The total number of Connecticut inmates in Virginia changes often, according to Scott Semple, Connecticut Department of Correction's (DOC) legislative liaison. The Virginia Department of Corrections (VDOC) is authorized by contract to house Connecticut inmates at Wallens Ridge, Red Onion State Prison, "or other VDOC facilities if deemed necessary by VDOC for proper inmate management."

The contract between DOC and VDOC, which was entered in October of 1999, covers a maximum of 484 inmates at a base rate of $64 per inmate per day. Inmates receiving acute mental health services and those hospitalized in the security unit at the
