

Where Did That Document Go? Preserving and Sharing Government Information - Chat Log

from Charlie she-her Amiot to everyone: 1:48 PM
I just got kicked out... Usability froze up completely.

from Charlie she-her Amiot, DLC to everyone: 1:50 PM Seems so! I ran off to find sugar though.

from Charlie she-her Amiot, DLC to everyone: 1:53 PM
I forgot to ask everyone before the meeting started, as I cut it close making it on time, but:

from Charlie she-her Amiot, DLC to everyone: 1:53 PM
What's everyone crafting this conference?

from Cindy Koy to everyone: 1:56 PM
Conference Craft: A cross stitch pattern I've been working on for 2.5 years T__T would really like to finish it before summer!

from Kelly Seifert to everyone: 1:56 PM
We hope everyone saw the Spring Meeting themed cross stitch activity: <https://www.fdip.gov/file-repository-item/spring-2025-dlc-virtual-meeting-cross-stitch-along> - thank you Charlie for developing the beautiful pattern!

from Cindy Koy to everyone: 1:56 PM
Yes, I was delighted to see a themed cross stitch pattern! :D

from Charlie she-her Amiot, DLC to everyone: 1:57 PM
Shamefully(?), instead of stitching one of my designs, I am trying to finish a Bob Ross embroidery I've been working on since December!

from Ulonda Slaughter to everyone: 1:57 PM @Susanne Caro Your weekly libguide is amazing!

from Charlie she-her Amiot, DLC to everyone: 1:57 PM @Koy, You can do it! I took close to ten years fully finishing a holiday sampler. But I got it done. Fueled by spite.

from Ashley Dahlen to everyone: 1:58 PM
I thought running multiple crafting projects at one time was the norm?! ;)

from Cassandra Wenzel to everyone: 1:58 PM @Charlie I've been taking notes. I'd definitely like to learn how to do cross stitch someday though!

from Andrea Stelljes, DLC to everyone: 1:58 PM
It really is nice, Charlie. Now I just need to learn how to cross stitch :)

from Charlie she-her Amiot, DLC to everyone: 1:58 PM
I sure hope it's the norm! It's definitely my ADHD norm. I have no less than ten projects I'm "actively" working on, spread across the house.

from Susanne Caro to everyone: 1:59 PM
LOL, I'm working on my FDLP eagle. It's....different

from Charlie she-her Amiot, DLC to everyone: 1:59 PM
Cross stitch is easy y'all! Jab the needle through the hole, come up diagonally. Repeat ad nauseum.

from Amy Laub, DLC to everyone: 1:59 PM
@Charlie this is why I have multiple looms--each one has an unfinished project on it

from Sarah Over to everyone: 2:00 PM
If you feel like the whole pattern is too much to do, I recommend not doing the background - what I do in my projects usually :D

from Ashley Dahlen to everyone: 2:00 PM
Charlie - it is all fun and games until your cat walks in front of you with colorful threads clinging to their fur... Then you know they have been into something.

from Susanne Caro to everyone: 2:00 PM
I've been working on a jacket for two years. Still can't get the sleeves right.

from Becki White to everyone: 2:00 PM
Can't craft while I'm at the Reference Desk this afternoon.

from Susanne Caro to everyone: 2:00 PM
I've been really looking forward to this presentation!

from Michelle Colquitt to everyone: 2:01 PM Same, Susanne.

from Kris Aberly to everyone: 2:01 PM
Such a timely topic and much needed

from Charlie she-her Amiot, DLC to everyone: 2:01 PM @Amy, it's a must. It's like reading more than one book at a time.

from Charlie she-her Amiot, DLC to everyone: 2:01 PM
@Ashley Yes, our new adoptee has proven a... challenge.

Interesting venn diagram. Time permitting, it'd be interesting to hear more about the overlapping and sui generis activities of these groups.

from Jonathan Underwood to everyone: 2:07 PM

Deborah, it was also on the venn diagram slide.

How are the preservers to be preserved? Internet Archive announced last week that it faces an "existential crisis" as an institution because of the music publisher's $700M lawsuit.

from Deborah Yun Caldwell to everyone: 2:12 PM <https://envirodatagov.org/>

from Charlie she-her Amiot, DLC to everyone: 2:12 PM
@Bruce not to say they aren't in a crisis, but I have noticed how they love to use catastrophe language when asking for donations.

from Susanne Caro to everyone: 2:13 PM
Bruce +1, a number of state agencies also use IA to preserve sites and make collections accessible. It would be a huge blow if we lost IA.

from Charlie she-her Amiot, DLC to everyone: 2:14 PM
@Bruce This is a great question though. I'm not even reliable in preserving my own materials and preserving the preservation. I know I'm grateful that shadow libraries exist in the event of major data disasters.

from Kaitlyn Moody to everyone: 2:21 PM
Is it part of EoT's workflow to archive every link on a landing page? The biggest issue I run into with the Internet Archive is that supplemental data on landing pages is often excluded, so many links within are largely broken still.

from James Jacobs to everyone: 2:22 PM
I'm most concerned with the destruction of federal data collection going forward.

ERIC is a perfect example of that venn diagram. It was a DRP project effort done by someone at Safeguarding Research and Culture (DRC) but all of the ERIC documents were harvested by EOT and internet Archive. And someone from DRP put together ERICA site

Danielle -- that's a great question, I'm sorry we didn't get to it! I know that many of these projects rely on volunteer efforts to create and add metadata at different points in the process.
